One Hemorrhoid Therapy that Works is Acupuncture

This is a traditional Chinese method of healing using needles, but it has recently become quite popular throughout the world. Traditional Chinese medicine heals the body holistically by leveraging into energy centers that go all through the body. Hemorrhoids are easy to grow to be inflamed and acupuncture is frequently used to reduce this problem quite fast. If you want to use this method, you should try to locate a qualified person in your area that practices this. Reflexology is a lot more easier system of healing that remains on the same concept as acupuncture, but instead of using needles, you press on the points of acupuncture together with your fingers. This, too, can be very helpful as a hemorrhoids treatment.

One inexpensive natural product that is often a very effective hemorrhoid treatment is psyllium. You can buy it in different forms such as a powder, in capsules, or in granules. Psyllium acts like a laxative, and of course there are many reasons why someone would want to take that. Psyllium helps you to have regular bowel movements. Very often constipation with hemorrhoids only serves to be able to irritate the condition due to the pressure of straining. It wouldn't hurt to speak with your family doctor before you take psyllium, and you really should anyway if you're already on a prescription medication.

- Sure, nothing is perfect, and in some people these natural treatments won't be enough to deal with the severity of the situation.
- In cases of extreme symptoms including bleeding, your personal doctor may recommend going with a surgical procedure to cut out the hemorrhoids.
